

Erratum

In the September 2003 issue of the Journal, in the article entitled, “Effects of Electron-Beam Irradiation on Buccal-Cell DNA,” by Castle et al. (73:646–651), the authors mistakenly communicated that whole-genome amplification had been performed on dried blood spots after

E-beam treatment. Whole-genome amplification was not performed. The authors thank Joanne Mei at the Centers for Disease Control for bringing this error to their attention.
